RAJYASEVAPRAVINA M. K. NILAKANTA AIYAR : (a) The answer is in the negative. But in March 1940 a communique was issued by Government expressing the hope that in order to avoid situations resulting in clash between the members of the Hindu and Christian communities who flock to the Mandakad festival and the Hindu and Christian religious conventions, arrangements might be made as a matter of mutual adjustment for the Christian convention being held before the commencement of the Hindu festival or after its termination.

(b) On receipt of a representation from the Travancore Church Council requesting permission for holding a Christian religious convention during the Mandakad festival, this year, the permission was granted subject to the condition that the convention is held within the precincts of the church and an undertaking being given by the Church Council that there will be no street preaching or other similar activities where Hindus congregate for the festival.

MR. K. NARAYANAPERUMAL NADAR : May I know whether the permission granted subject to certain conditions stated in the answer is for 1116 alone or for future years as well?

RAJYASEVAPRAVINA M. K. NILAKANTA AIYAR : The communique issued by Government is clear on the subject.

MR. K. NARAYANAPERUMAL NADAR : May I know whether it has been brought to the notice of Government that churches are being built without permission?

RAJYASEVAPRAVINA M. K. NILAKANTA AIYAR : Government have no such information.
